B&J Distribution Limited recall Finger Flicker Toys

📅 JUNE 12, 2020

B&J Distribution Limited is carrying out a voluntary recall of 'Finger Flicker' toys. The toys in question were sold through retail outlets between June 2016 and July 2018. There are 2016 toys sold in the Republic of Ireland. The products affected have a serial number of 420901BJ which can be found on the back of the product.

B&J Distribution Limited has established that when the toy is subject to relatively minor force there's a risk that the casing can come apart and the battery can fall out. There's a risk of electrochemical burn from swallowing a battery, if the product fails and a child swallows the battery.
