

PRODUCT RECALLS

H&M recall foam football

📅 SEPTEMBER 18, 2014

H&M is voluntarily recalling a foam football due to a potential safety issue. The ball can break into small parts which may present a risk of choking. No injuries have been reported.

The footballs were sold in the Baby Departments of all stores and the affected products have the following identification no:

O/N767680/P/N 0212555

What to Do : If you have purchased one of these products stop using it immediately and return it to any H&M store for a full refund.