Kingfisher International Products B.V. Recalls Site Hallissey Dealer Boots

📅 DECEMBER 3, 2025

Kingfisher International Products B.V. is carrying out a recall of Site Hallissey Dealer Boots with a date of manufacture (DOM) 09/2022 onwards. Batches before this date are not affected.

The product presents a risk of injury. The boots have been found to have defective anti-static protection. Therefore, there is a risk of build-up of static electricity, which if used in an anti-static or static-sensitive environment may result in a static discharge causing injury to the user.

The brand is Site. The type/number of model is Hallissey. Further product information can be found in the table below:
