LittleLife recalls its 'Featherlite Lightweight Travel Cot' product

📅 NOVEMBER 4, 2020

Lifemarque Limited (trading as 'LittleLife') is carrying out a voluntary recall on its 'Featherlite Lightweight Travel Cot' product. Affected products were sold via the LittleLife website.

A safety issue has been identified whereby it is possible, that under certain circumstances, the cot may become unstable and tip over. This could allow the child to escape the cot and as a result, injury to the child cannot be ruled out.

The CCPC understands that 1 product has been made available to a customer in the Republic of Ireland.

What to do:

Lifemarque Limited will directly contact the affected customer to inform them about this recall. Lifemarque Limited (trading as 'LittleLife') have also highlighted the recall on their website.

If you believe that you have purchased this product then you should stop using it immediately. You should return the product along with a proof of purchase to the address shown on the recall page on their website and state whether you would like a new replacement version (when available) or alternatively, a full refund. All return postage charges will also be fully reimbursed.
