Mercedes-Benz Ireland recalls C-class

 SEPTEMBER 20, 2016

Mercedes-Benz Ireland recalls certain models of the C-class manufactured from December 2014 to date.

On C-class models the threaded connection between the high pressure line and the high pressure pump may work loose. This could lead to a leak with fuel escaping.

There have been 858 of these vehicles placed on the Irish market.

What to do:

Mercedes-Benz Ireland will contact the owners of affected vehicles by mail and advise them to take their vehicle to a Mercedes-Benz dealer. The dealer will arrange for the replacement of the affected part. This work will be carried out at no cost to the owner.

You can get more information from Mercedes Benz directly on 01-4094444, between the hours of 09:00 – 12:45 and 13:45 – 17:15.
