Mothercare Ireland Recalls Hyde crib

📅 MARCH 12, 2018

Mothercare is recalling its Hyde Crib. This is due to a risk of injury posed by a safety issue of the base detaching from the frame. It effects approximately 283 cribs sold in Ireland, with batch dates from January 2017 to November 2017. All earlier batch dates are unaffected. The batch date can be found on the crib base. This crib is sold in Mothercare stores, the Mothercare website and various other outlets.

What to do:

To check if you have an affected crib please check the guidelines below:

If the bottom rail, with blocks on which you sit the base, is shorter than the top rail then your crib is not affected, picture A.

If the bottom rail, with blocks on which you sit the base, is longer than the top rail then your crib is unsafe and should be returned to store, picture B.

If your crib is affected, please stop using it immediately and return your product to your nearest Mothercare Ireland store where a full refund will be given.
