Recall of InSinkErator garbage disposal unit

📅 JUNE 3, 2015

InSinkErator (UK) are recalling their sink garbage disposal unit. A potential safety issue has been identified with the product where damage to the air switch or improper installation of the disposal unit can result in a potential fire hazard. The affected products were manufactured and sold between November 2012 and January 2015.

What to do:

Please do not continue to use this product. Consumers in possession of these affected products should contact InSinkErator for a free replacement air switch kit. The replacement kit will provide instructions on how it can be installed by the homeowner. Further information on how to identify whether you are in possession of an affected product is included on InSinkErator's website at www.insinkeratorsafetynotice.com.
